Fenici Red

CLASSIFICATION	DOK Malta – Denominazzjoni ta' Origini Kontrollata
YEAR	2010
VARIETAL/S	Syrah & Merlot of Malta
TASTING NOTES	Fenici Red has a full, ruby-red, colour; slightly spicy, cherry-plum aromas; and a medium-bodied, fruity flavour with soft tannins and a pleasant finish.
VINTAGE REPORT	Winter weather was regular. the first half experiencing mild temperatures and recording average seasonal rainfall. This created ideal conditions for budburst and later development phases. A longer than normal vegetative phase was combines with a slight delay in grape-ripeness. This helped preserve the vines’ aromatic characteristics and favoured the development of soft and delicate tannins.
PRODUCT INFORMATION	The name 'Fenici' pays tribute to the Phoenicians who, during the first millennium BC, spread winemaking culture throughout the Mediterranean and endowed European Malta with its distinctive Semitic language. The Fenici range is a casual, easy to drink selection of white, rosé, and red wines vinified to yield surprisingly fresh and fruity personalities. Fenici wines derive from Meridiana's estate and from closely supervised third party properties situated in the vicinity. The Fenici Red was first released in 2006 (vintage 2005) Available in 375ml and 750ml.

TASTING NOTES	Fenici Red has a full, ruby-red colour; slightly spiced, cherry-plum aromas; and a medium-bodied, fruity flavour with soft tannins and a pleasant finish.
VINTAGE REPORT	Winter weather was relatively mild with a slightly higher rainfall than usual. The resulting moisture reserves in the soil promoted a balanced budburst and a regular vegetative growth pattern. Summer weather and sunshine enabled a normal ripening of grapes and the production of aromatic wines and satisfactory tannin content.

VARIETAL/S Syrah & Merlot of Malta

TASTING NOTES Fenici Red has a full, ruby-red colour; slightly spiced, cherry-plum aromas; and a medium-bodied, fruity flavour with soft tannins and a pleasant finish.

VINTAGE REPORT Although winter temperatures were colder than normal, rainfall was average. The slightly larger bunches than normal were offset by an earlier ripening of the grapes. This vintage demonstrated that, despite the warm microclimate, grapes can achieve an optimal ripening level – bouquet-wise and palate-wise, thanks to the vineyard's proximity to the sea.

VARIETAL/S Syrah & Merlot of Malta

TASTING NOTES Fenici Red has a full, ruby-red colour; slightly spiced, cherry-plum aromas; and a medium-bodied, fruity flavour with soft tannins and a pleasant finish.

VINTAGE REPORT This vintage confirmed all those weather conditions that characterize the atmosphere of our small Mediterranean island. Precipitation and temperatures have gone hand in hand respecting the seasonal average. This has resulted in a regular and uniform shooting of the plants in the spring, which subsequently allowed a balanced vegetative growth during the entire season. There has been an increase in production over the previous years and a slower maturation over a longer period of time. These ideal conditions surrounded by the presence of the sea have confirmed expectations that are expressed through fresh and well balanced wines, characterized by a lively aromatic bouquet.

VARIETAL/S Merlot & Syrah of Malta

TASTING NOTES Fenici Red has a full, ruby-red colour; slightly spiced, cherry-plum aromas; and a medium-bodied, fruity flavour with soft tannins and a pleasant finish.

VINTAGE REPORT This vintage was characterized by a very wet winter, which has helped have a good water retention in the soil to guarantee regular sprouting. The spring temperatures have been similar to the seasonal averages and this has favored a normal succession of vegetation growth. In summer maturation was slow and has continued throughout the month of August and compared to the previous there has been a slight drop in yield. All this is expressed through wines which are particularly rich in aromas with classic olfactory notes that remind us of their territory, elegance and a long finish on the palate.

VARIETAL/S Merlot, Syrah & Cabernet of Malta

TASTING NOTES Fenici Red has a full, ruby-red colour; slightly spiced, cherry-plum aromas; and a medium-bodied, fruity flavour with soft tannins and a pleasant finish.

VINTAGE REPORT This vintage was characterized by the very little rainfall. Temperatures were in line with seasonal averages, except for winter which was slightly warmer. Due to the high temperatures in January and February sprouts occurred slightly earlier than in the previous year. Because of the little rain and excessive heat on the island, the grapes matured in advance but despite this, we have obtained good productions for all the varieties in our vineyards. Having invested a lot of time in the vineyard, managing the foliage of the plants and maximizing the water in the soil, we have achieved some very good wines, which despite the warm weather, all in all, are very fresh, well balanced characterized by lively aromas in the whites and deep intense colors in the reds.

VARIETAL/S	Merlot, Cabernet & Syrah of Malta
TASTING NOTES	Fenici Red has a full, ruby-red colour; slightly spiced, cherry-plum aromas; and a medium-bodied, fruity flavour with soft tannins and a pleasant finish.
VINTAGE REPORT	The 2018 vintage was characterized by the constant rainfalls registered in spring. This made it quite challenging, but at the end, grape production was abundant. Excellent work and control on the white grape varieties, and the thorough selection on the red grape varieties have given the desired quality and balance to the wines.

VARIETAL/S Syrah, Merlot & Cabernet of Malta

TASTING NOTES Fenici Red has a full, ruby-red colour; slightly spiced, cherry-plum aromas; and a medium-bodied, fruity flavour with soft tannins and a pleasant finish.

VINTAGE REPORT The 2020 vintage was characterized by an exceptionally long, rather cold and rainier than usual winter which allowed the vines to rest a little longer than they usually do.

Mild temperatures and few spring rains resulted into a reduced production when compared to the average, but allowed the soils to cool down without causing phytosanitary issues, with an excellent result for the quality of the wines produced in terms of freshness, balance and aromatic intensity.

The late rains in summer have lengthened the ripening of the red grapes without affecting in any way the quality of the wines.

VARIETAL/S Merlot, Syrah & Cabernet of Malta

TASTING NOTES Fenici Red has a full, ruby-red colour; slightly spiced, cherry-plum aromas; and a medium-bodied, fruity flavour with soft tannins and a pleasant finish.

VINTAGE REPORT Climatically, 2021 was the ideal vintage for the life cycle of the vine. Winter was long, quite rainy, and this allowed the plants an excellent vegetative rest. Rainfall was abundant and frequent, and this kept going on until late spring. The presence of water in the soil gave an important boost to the vegetative recovery of the vines. Flowering and fruit set were carried out in a linear manner. This was followed by high temperatures during the summer, which accelerated the ripening of the grapes, giving way to an early start of harvest season. Grapes made it to harvest in excellent phytosanitary condition and were of fantastic quality, with an average yield per hectare compared to the last 5 years.
